Qualstar hires Atlanta Technology as authorised UK reseller

London, UK: Atlanta Technology, cloud computing and hosted technology specialists, is today announcing its appointment by Qualstar, a manufacturer of automated tape storage solutions, as an authorised reseller for the business in the UK. Atlanta was appointed by Qualstar to offer consultancy, sales and ongoing support to customers looking to integrate enterprise-standard archival storage, backup and data protection into their IT infrastructure.

Bob Covey, VP of Marketing, Qualstar said: "We appointed Atlanta Technology as it was clear to us that the team is extremely experienced in supporting businesses with their entire IT needs – they do not look to simply shift products, but are focused on delivering complete solutions to small, medium and large enterprises. We have a number of new launches planned for 2010 and so look forward to working with Atlanta to introduce these to the UK market over the coming months."

Simon Kelson, managing director, Atlanta Technology added: "Qualstar produces an impressive range of tape libraries that suit businesses at all levels. Its products have the ability to scale up to an impressive 15 Petabytes, meaning it offers very high-density archiving and data protection solutions for customers who rely on their past and present data, or for those with specific growth plans in place who may be looking to scale in the future. We are pleased to have been appointed as an authorised reseller for Qualstar in the UK as the products complement our existing portfolio."
